

GET GROWING!

Groth's Gardens and Greenhouses Newsletter ❀ February 2015

It's February and love is in the air! With Valentine's Day right around the corner I couldn't help but focus on some pink and red flowers sure to make your heart skip a beat while winter's grip is still upon us. Our 2015 New Plant List is attached and you can also find it on our website: www.grothsgardens.com. We're also posting a new slide show on the website with recent spring and summer photos. We'll be starting to plant in the greenhouses by the end of the month so we can have all those beautiful plants and blooms ready for you when we open on April 17.

Winter Classes

The first of our winter classes will be February 21 and will focus on hardy, low maintenance roses for Iowa gardens. Everyone is familiar with the Knock Out rose family which is presently the #1 selling rose in the U.S. Due to their popularity roses are back "in vogue" as gardeners are wanting to expand their plantings with colors and forms not found in the Knock Out family. There are so many excellent choices that are actually as good (or dare I say better) than Knock Outs and I'm excited to share those with you!

See the class schedule on our website <http://www.grothsgardens.com>, email us at demagroth@grothsgardens.com or call us at 515-462-4445.

What's Trending for 2015?

The Pantone Color of the Year is Marsala (<http://tinyurl.com/kxwl45o>). The earthy red tone may be a little challenging to work with for our spring plantings, but should make a great accent for foliage and container colors. The other related colors have a more spring-like vibe and you will see these colors in everything from clothing, makeup, furniture and plants. Whether or not you follow the color trend is entirely up to you!

Container gardening continues to gain popularity. You will see more veggies that have been bred to perform well in containers as well as new annual and perennial plants for summer combos. Container gardening offers weed free growing, portability and the joy of season-long color and food right at the back door where we are most likely to experience it. Fairy gardens and succulents are still very popular. Not only is it fun to share with children and grandchildren, it takes many of us back to our "dollhouse" days and reminds us of simpler, gentler times.

Smaller garden spaces are trending as people downsize their homes and busy lives dictate less weeding and more garden color closer to our homes where we gather on decks and patios with family and friends. More native plants and flowers for pollinators tops the list on many of the trend spotters' predictions for 2015. Most of the trends seem to be extensions from 2014 and we will be ready with the plants you need this spring!

Supertunia Black Cherry

This is a new petunia from Proven Winners. A strong grower and will work well in combinations. Blooms all season!

Geranium 'Biokovo' is the Perennial Plant Association's pick for 2015. Anyone who has grown this wonderful perennial can appreciate the spicy foliage fragrance, long bloom time and red fall foliage. Hardy to zone 4 it's a wonderful front of the border plant with a mature height of 10–12" and a spread of 2–3 feet. 'Biokovo' grows quickly and makes an impressive ground cover pairing nicely with roses and clematis. It will grow best with morning sun and at least partial shade in the afternoon. A low maintenance plant that is also deer resistant! This should be a popular plant this spring; pre-ordering assures that we'll have plenty on hand!

hardy, disease resistant roses have been put through rigorous trials making them excellent roses for Iowa and the upper Midwest. Learn more about these robust beauties at <http://www.easyelegancerose.com>

Vista Supertunia Bubblegum

Follow this link for a great article on Vista Supertunia Bubblegum: <https://www.provenwinners.com/plants/series/supertunia>. This has become our best selling annual and is what we grow in the hanging baskets for Winterset. Learn how to care and feed this plant for optimum performance!

'Paint the Town' Easy Elegance rose

Hardy, long blooming, low maintenance roses are on almost every gardener's wish list. 'Paint the Town' is an Easy Elegance rose from the Bailey Nursery breeding program out of St. Paul, MN. Extremely
